"How about the returns?" shouted one "how about the returns," shouted one man in the street.

"I don't know anything about that," replied the man on the platform, and he disappeared without awaiting a reply. At the Republican Heasquarters, in the Johnson Building, it was caimed early in the evening that Morton had carried the county by at least 16,00 plurality, that five Republican Congressmen had been elected, and twelve out of eighteen Assemblymen.

The Republicans how have a majority of two in the Board of Supervisors and expect to gain four more.

The Democrats admit that Hill's vote in Brooklyn fell many thousands below their lowest estimate some base of now the vote between Morton and Hill stands in brooklyn can be gicaned from the following figures: In 500 districts of the 682 in the city Hill's vote is 50, 848 and Morton's 61,589. Wheeler's vote is 6, 116, a plurality for Morton of 10, 311, in 250 districts Hill's vote was 23,070; Morton's 32,085 and Wheeler's 3,884.

At the Shepard headquarters in Brooklyn the election of the Republican ticket was conceded, and there was great rejoicing over Hill's defeat. There it was estimated that Morton would lead Hill in Kings County by 15,000 at the lowest.

Republicars say that Wheeler's total vote in Kings County will not be over 10,000.

At the closing of the polls in Brooklyn there was more or less excitement among late voters, who were barred out, owing to the amount of time it took to dispose of ballots. It is estimated that hundreds of votes were lost in this way.

Police Commissioner Welles, who had made a tour of the city late this afternoon, said that in some of the districts in East New York from fifty to 100 voters were left standing in line when the polls closed. In one district eighty-five persons were barred out.

The voters who were in the booths folding their ballots when the polls closed were allowed to cast their ballots, but those outside in line were turned away.
